

WELCOME TO GERMANY

Germany has something to offer for every visitor. Modern large cities. Romantic, lush countrysides. Stunning landscapes on the sea coasts in the north. Majestic Alps in the south. Germany is well known for its traditions. Loved for its culinary specialities. Admired worldwide for its passion for high tech products. Germany is also one of the most advanced countries in Europe regarding the rights of lesbians and gays. For example, being out of the closet is in no way a political disadvantage for prominent government politicians, like the mayors of Berlin and Hamburg.

In Germany's large cities, there are a large number of events taking place throughout the year for the well integrated gay community. Here are some of the highlights. The 18th Lesbian and Gay City Festival takes place in Berlin from July 12-13, 2010. Directly prior to that, Germany's largest Pride Festival takes place in Cologne from July 2-4, 2010. Also in Cologne, the VIII Gay Games 2010 will take place from July 31 to August 7, 2010. Europe's largest leather and fetish event, Folsom Europe, will greet its many visitors September 4, 2010 in Berlin. And the well known Lauf für mehr Zeit („Run for More Time“) follows on September 12, 2010 in Frankfurt am Main.

WELCOME TO BERLIN

In the early 1900's, particularly during the Roaring 20's and the 1930's, Berlin was the one of the largest metropolises for the international gay community. With an extensive offer of top notch lesbian and gay bars, cafés and other establishments which have long been in existence, it was relatively easy for „him and her“ to meet others from the gay community. During and after World War II, it took several decades until the gay scene was once again fully established in the city. Today, Berlin is undeniably once again the most visited city for the gay community in Germany. Berlin offers a tremendous variety of activities, services and institutions designed for and by gay men, lesbians, bisexuals and transsexuals which include: over 150 gay clubs and bars; an abundance of gay restaurants, cafés and saunas; a multitude of cultural activities, including the world's only gay history museum; several gay radio broadcasters; and even a national gay TV Station. The annual Gay-Lesbian Street Festival and Pride Festival each summer attract several hundred thousand visitors from across the world. Accor has a strong presence in Berlin, with almost 30 hotels. We would like to introduce you in particular to the following hotels of the RAINBOW SELECTION.....
